

Artist Reflection

Eric Lacombe

By

My Artist

- My artist is named Eric Lacombe. He is best known for his sad and meaningless pictures.
- Lacombe was born in Lyon, France in 1968.
He is a graphic designer, digital artist and self – taught painter.

Melancholy

Eric Lacombe's art work is intended to have negative and unavoidable feelings that is often come with fear, anxiety and sadness.

In addition, Lacombe's artwork is abstract and sometimes is associated with drama.

Lacombe's Artwork on Display

- I could not find any prices for Lacombe's paintings.
- "GA 2.0" can be found in the Artevistas Galeria in Barcelona, Spain.

Mediums

- Lacombe uses canvas, paint, paper mache, and paper when constructing his art.

What made me interested in Eric Lacombe?

The thing that interested me about my artist's work was the way Lacombe's art looked like it was mostly skulls on human bodies.

My Reference Paintings

I chose these paintings because I thought they were pretty interesting and cool.

Most Important Aspect

- To me, my most important aspect of my are was to get every detail correct.
- Lacombe's paintings are sad and include lots of details.

Elements of My Artwork

- I paid attention to the colors I used on my art. I tried to use the details that I needed to make it look like Lacombe's art.

Purpose/Meaning

- I was trying to add elements of both anxiety and fear.
- I wanted to my tile to show melancholy and sadness.

“Mars 2015”

My Painting

Similarities

1. Colors
2. Same Character
3. Scary

Untitled

“The Weight of Silence”

Eric Lacombe's Paintings

Differences

1. Used 2 pictures to make 1 picture
2. I changed a couple of details
3. My tile is more colorful than Eric's